ON THE COVER

About the cover: Since 2007, there have literally been dozens of economic announcements by local operations expanding and companies moving into the area. We invited CEOs and senior staff to join us for our cover photo. They represent companies investing in the Mobile area and are also members of the Mobile Area Chamber. On pages 17 - 25, we take a look at Mobile on the Grow and a decade of economic development. Photo by Jeff Tesney.

USA Jags Roar into 10th Season of Football

College Planning on Campus Stadium

“And it’s another South Alabama first down!” If you have been to a University of South Alabama (USA) football game, you know the chant and the celebration from the crowd when the ball moves down the field. On Saturday, Sept. 1, the Jags kick off their 10th football season with a new coach and talk of its own stadium.

The inaugural season blitz came in 2007 from a petition presented by USA students to then-President Gordon Moulton in support of football and marching band. (It happened at half-time during a basketball game.) Two months later, the university board of trustees approved the move, and the coin toss on the Jaguar team’s first game was in September 2009 under the leadership of Head Coach Joey Jones. Steve Campbell replaced Jones after the 2017 season.

“Coach Steve Campbell and his staff bring incredible passion and enthusiasm,” says Travis

Toth, senior associate athletic director, who handles external affairs and marketing for the Jags.

All games will be shown this fall on the new ESPN+ streaming service.

June. The new stadium, located where the intramural fields are, will hold 25,000 spectators and will cost approximately $72 million.

on-campus stadium is the next step for exponential growth at USA. “What’s good for the university is good for the community,” he says.

In just its sixth year of competition, South became the fastest FBS program (formally known as NCAA Division 1) to be invited to a bowl game when the Jags played in the Raycom Media Camellia Bowl in 2014. The Jags are one of 10 football teams in the Sun Belt Conference.

“Our football program has expanded opportunities for hundreds of students, and that shouldn’t be overlooked,” says Waldrop. “At the same time, having a football program – and a marching band – most definitely enhances student life at our university. It also makes us more attractive to prospective students, and we’ve found that more alumni are reconnecting with South because of the Jaguar football program.”

Even under the most aggressive schedule, the earliest fans could be watching their team in a new stadium on campus would be 2020, according to a university resolution. USA trustees authorized President Tony Waldrop to “execute the necessary agreements to begin site work for construction” in

The Mobile Area Chamber’s board of directors passed its own resolution in June in support of the effort as well, supporting the redevelopment and investment of the current site of Ladd-Peebles Stadium.

Could Mobile's Airport Move Downtown to Brookley?

Results of an airport feasibility study created nonstop media coverage and were the primary topic of community conversations for several weeks this summer.

In June, the Mobile Airport Authority (MAA) discussed results of the study and potentially switching the roles between the downtown and Mobile Regional airports at a media conference.

"Changing roles of the airports will allow us to attract better air service and retain a great share of users that should be using our airport," said Chris Curry, the MAA's executive director. "The only way to drive the cost of fares down in our community is to create competition, increase destinations and provide better access."

The feasibility study included the four airport choices passengers have within a 120-mile region for travel and how choices are made; Mobile's current share of passengers; a 10-year traffic forecast; how to drive flight costs down; and infrastructure needed.

Currently, 47 percent of the passengers in the MAA catchment area are going to other airports, including New Orleans, Gulfport-Biloxi and Pensacola.

Curry said the move to Brookley increases access to Baldwin County's 138,000 passengers that MAA doesn't have at Regional. He also stressed the importance of the Mobile River I-10 bridge to further reduce travel time from Baldwin County to Brookley.

Curry made a point to say that the major tenants at Brookley would remain.

While no specific investment was mentioned, the study concluded moving commercial operations downtown was a "cheaper option" when compared to building a new access road to Mobile Regional Airport.

The next step came when the MAA board voted to approve the study and its findings, also in June, authorizing Curry to pursue a master plan to finalize details and costs. Curry estimated the master plan would take 12 to 18 months and its findings would cover the next 20 years of airport development, existing facilities, future forecast, potential layouts and the environmental impact of making Brookley a commercial airport.

"This process will not happen overnight," he said. We expect it to take three to five years."

The only way to drive the cost of fares down in our community is to create competition, increase destinations and provide better access.

Mobile Symphony Sounds the Trumpet

Mobile audiences will continue to be wowed by Scott Speck's musical talents. Speck extended his tenure as the Mobile Symphony's music director for another three years.

He joined the symphony in 2000, and is key to the symphony becoming one of Mobile's flagship arts organizations with an orchestra packed with the best talents from throughout the Gulf Coast, according to Celia Mann Baehr, president and CEO.

"Every season, the orchestra that comes to meet me is at a higher level of artistry than the previous year. As a result, we have the luxury of programming the world's greatest masterpieces, completely without regard to their technical challenges. The Mobile Symphony is an orchestra of great virtuosos, and I am so excited to show them off," said Speck.

"Scott's passion for music and his connection with the musicians and audience have helped us become one of the nation's best regional orchestras," said Mann Baehr. "We're pleased his leadership will continue as we offer our region a world-class concert experience very close to home."

His gala performances with Yo-Yo Ma, Itzhak Perlman, Joshua Bell, Midori, Evelyn Glennie and Olga Kern highlight Speck's years in Mobile. This season opens Wednesday, Sept.

12 with another world-renowned musical star – Renée Fleming, an American opera singer and soprano.

"The Mobile Symphony's 2018-2019 season is our most ambitious yet," Speck noted. "From the glory of Renée Fleming's luscious voice to the jaw-dropping pyrotechnics of Vadim Gluzman's violin, from the spectacle of Respighi's Roman Festivals to the passion and fervor of Tchaikovsky's Sixth Symphony, our season offers an uplifting and exhilarating experience unlike anything else on the Gulf Coast."

Speck also holds positions as music director of Chicago's Joffrey Ballet, the Chicago Philharmonic and West Michigan Symphony.

MSO season details and ticket information are available at www.mobilesymphony.org.

Team Mobile Travels to Farnborough Air Show

A small delegation representing the City of Mobile, Mobile County, Mobile Area Chamber, Mobile Airport Authority and the University of South Alabama traveled this summer to London to participate in the bi-annual Farnborough Air Show. Over the course of three days, members of Team Mobile participated in more than 15 one-on-one meetings with industries already established in Mobile and their suppliers, as well as with several potential new investors in this market.

Also, a group traveled to Broughton in northern England to tour the Airbus wing manufacturing facility, and hosted more than 150 aerospace executives during a reception attended by Gov. Kay Ivey, Airbus President Tom Enders and Airbus America's President Jeff Knittel.

CJ Small, Mobile City Council; Nick Lawkis with USA; Mayor Sandy Stimpson; Mobile County Commission President Connie Hudson; and Fred Richardson, Mobile City Council, attended the Farnborough Air Show.

"There is no place, and I really mean it, that has been so supportive all these years like Alabama, and Mobile in Alabama," said Enders during his remarks to reception attendees. Though he is retiring in 2019 from the company, Enders spoke to attendees on a variety of topics including how Mobile went from a location to build tankers, to the engineering center, to the final assembly line and the company's future investment in Mobile.

In speaking on the Airbus 220, through a partnership with Bombardier, Enders added,

"Everyone understands how important Mobile is for a global aerospace company – Airbus. And as you have seen in recent months, we doubled down in Mobile, Alabama."

For more than a decade the Mobile Area Chamber has led a team of economic development partners to attend the bi-annual show. Goals for the show are to set appointments with key industry executives, network with potential aerospace suppliers and host a well-attended reception. David Rodgers, vice president of economic development for the Chamber, said this year's event exceeded expectations, and there is a lot of global interest in Mobile, especially now with the A220 coming on-line next year.

"This year validated that Mobile is in an excellent spot for future aerospace growth," he added.

You'll see this symbol  with stories featuring Chamber initiatives.

Members of Team Mobile traveled to Broughton to view the Airbus's wing facility.

McFadden Engineering Goes With the Flow

Bigger isn't always better. Thirty years ago, Hope and Frank McFadden had a vision for a smaller, more flexible engineering firm that could offer its clients a personal touch along with the expertise of larger firms.

Specializing in water and wastewater, stream modeling and groundwater remediation engineering, McFadden Engineering Inc. (MEI) has been building strong client relationships over the past three decades, which has kept the business growing even as it maintains a small staff of 10.

McFadden Engineering is the Mobile Area Chamber's Small Business of the Month.

"Not many firms our size can offer full-scale environmental services as well as provide civil engineering design capabilities," said Hope, the firm's vice president and chief financial officer. "Our staff is comprised of engineers, geologists and technicians who are experienced in their fields and work as a tightly knit team to meet the expectations of our clients.

"Many people would look at the size of our firm as a disadvantage, but we see it as a positive because our highly trained professionals can closely collaborate to handle the work while developing relationships with our clients."

Even though it's small, McFadden's team brings nearly a century of combined experience in civil and environmental engineering, with engineers and geologists who are licensed in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi.

And now, McFadden

Engineering is taking on a new challenge. The firm has developed an innovative wastewater treatment and reuse system called OxyShark, a response to clients' needs for a cost-effective, space-saving system that's environmentally sound with an excellent return on investment.

"We have always enjoyed solving challenging environmental problems, no matter the size or scope of the project," said Frank, the firm's founder and president.

"We saw a need to develop a wastewater treatment process that would be small in relative size to a typical system, provide highly treated water from certain waste streams, be simple to operate and deliver industry-leading return on investment. Through this vision, the patent-pending OxyShark process was born."

He believes the firm's movement into the manufacturing sector with the development of OxyShark will bring additional jobs and recognition to Mobile.

"We would like to help put Mobile on the map as an environmentally proactive city, showcasing innovative solutions that provide excellent quality of life," Hope said. "Our entry into wastewater manufacturing will provide a vehicle for growing both MEI and OxyShark while offering sound and sustainable solutions to the use of one of our major natural resources – water."

Warren Averett LLC

Company officials: Phillip Rivers CPA, managing member, Mobile office

Years in business: 45 years

Brief company description: With more than 800 employees, Warren Averett is one of the largest certified public accounting firms in Alabama, the Gulf Coast and the Southeast. Since the firm was founded in Birmingham in 1972, many predecessors have since merged with the company. Since its inception, its footprint has grown to include 15 offices throughout Alabama, Florida and Georgia, as well as affiliate offices in Texas and the Cayman Islands.

Why are you located in Mobile? “Warren Averett has expanded in size and geography in order to add value for our clients and opportunity for our people,” said Rivers. “We opened the Mobile office in 2015 to better serve our clients in south Alabama. With our global reach, we are able to provide valuable solutions to not only local businesses in the area, but also to large international companies which are headquartered in Mobile.”

Why do you support the Mobile Area Chamber of Commerce’s Partners for Growth initiative? “Having a strong business community impacts all aspects of life in Mobile – from a business perspective and personal life,” said Rivers. “I grew up in Mobile and know how wonderful our city is. As a Partner for Growth, I’m excited to have the opportunity to help others see that as well. The strength of our business community is important, so helping companies and organizations thrive will strengthen our entire community for years to come.”

What do you see as Mobile’s greatest potential? “With technology advancements and access to the port, there is tremendous opportunity to attract more international businesses than ever before,” said Rivers.

Length of continuous Chamber membership: Since 2015

International Aerospace Conference Comes to Mobile

The inaugural Southeast Aerospace and Defence Conference, hosted by AirFinance Journal, was held in Mobile in June. The goal of the conference was to bring together suppliers, Original Equipment Manufacturers, aerospace companies, financiers and investors. Mobile Area Chamber President & CEO Bill Sisson was on a panel of local and state economic development representatives across the Southeast to discuss the developing aerospace clusters in their specific areas. Alabama Gov. Kay Ivey was the keynote speaker at the networking dinner. She highlighted the continued growth of the industry across the state. The Chamber was given the opportunity to have a table display throughout the conference to showcase the region in front of both existing and prospective companies. ○○

Company: Mobile Arts and Sports Association/Reese's Senior Bowl

Title: Executive Director

Hometown: Traverse City, Mich.

Education: Nagy has a bachelor's degree in sports management and communications from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Mich.

First job: He cleaned fish at a seafood restaurant at age 13 and also worked in cherry orchards in high school, where his hometown is recognized as the cherry capital of the world.

Previous experience: Nagy spent 18 years scouting in the National Football League for the Green Bay Packers, Washington Redskins, New England Patriots, Kansas City Chiefs and Seattle Seahawks. He also worked as a sports agent in New York City for four years.

Accomplishments: He was a part of six Super Bowls and won four Super Bowl rings.

Secret to success: "Treat people well, never stop learning, don't take yourself too seriously, and work your butt off. Find something you're passionate about and figure out a way to make a living out of it."

Brief company description:

The Mobile Arts and Sports Association is the parent organization of the Senior Bowl. As America's premier college football all-star game featuring outstanding senior players from across the country, the game week itself serves as an "unofficial" NFL convention, with more than 800 coaches, scouts and representatives from member clubs in attendance to evaluate and interview prospects for the upcoming draft in April. The Senior Bowl sponsors several community-related events throughout the year and has donated $7.8 million dollars to youth-related charities along the Gulf Coast.

MOBILE'S on the Grow

Full of Southern charm and hospitality, Mobile gives rise to countless business opportunities. Over the last decade, Mobile's economic development efforts garnered $8.1 billion in capital investment and 14,341 jobs at new and existing area companies.

Just as impressive as our growing business community is our quality of life. Mobile is a picturesque city at the mouth of the Mobile River and edge of Mobile Bay, leading to the Gulf of Mexico. Our streets are lined with massive live oaks, and outdoor activities can be enjoyed year-round thanks to our warm, sunny climate.

Founded in 1702, Mobile is one of the oldest cities in the United States. Our rich history is matched with a fast-growing, modern community focused on the future.

A Decade of ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT: Looking Back

Editor's note: As we planned this issue of The Business View, we thought it would be interesting to take a look at the economic development announcements made over the last decade, locating them on a map of Mobile County.*

Before you turn the page, we invite you to take a quick walk down memory lane remembering some of our biggest victories, and some lesser known stories we found as we culled through our records.

Over the last decade, you've heard about nearly 100 Chamber-recruited projects, be it a new company or industry expansion. With their news, collectively came 14,386 direct jobs and $8.1 billion in capital investments.

Along the way, the success stories came from names we recognize and a few we learned quickly.

For example, in 2007, ThyssenKrupp's historic $3.7 billion investment for a new, state-of-the-art steel mill in north Mobile County (now owned by AM/NS Calvert and Outokumpu) was at the time, lauded as the largest private investment made in the U.S. Since purchasing the steel operations, AM/NS has made $118 million in capital investments to expand the facility. Jointly, AM/NS and Outokumpu employ 2,455 people.

Austal USA expanded four times over the last 10 years, adding 3,700 jobs. In addition to the current 4,300-plus employees and multiple capital spending outlays, there is tremendous pride in saying U.S. Navy warships are made in Mobile.

The Kimberly-Clark investment in 2010 was labeled one of the area's first major retention projects – meaning the $50 million investment secured the mill's future. The company made two additional key announcements, one in 2017 and another this April – sure signs the Mobile facility is a strong asset to KC's future.

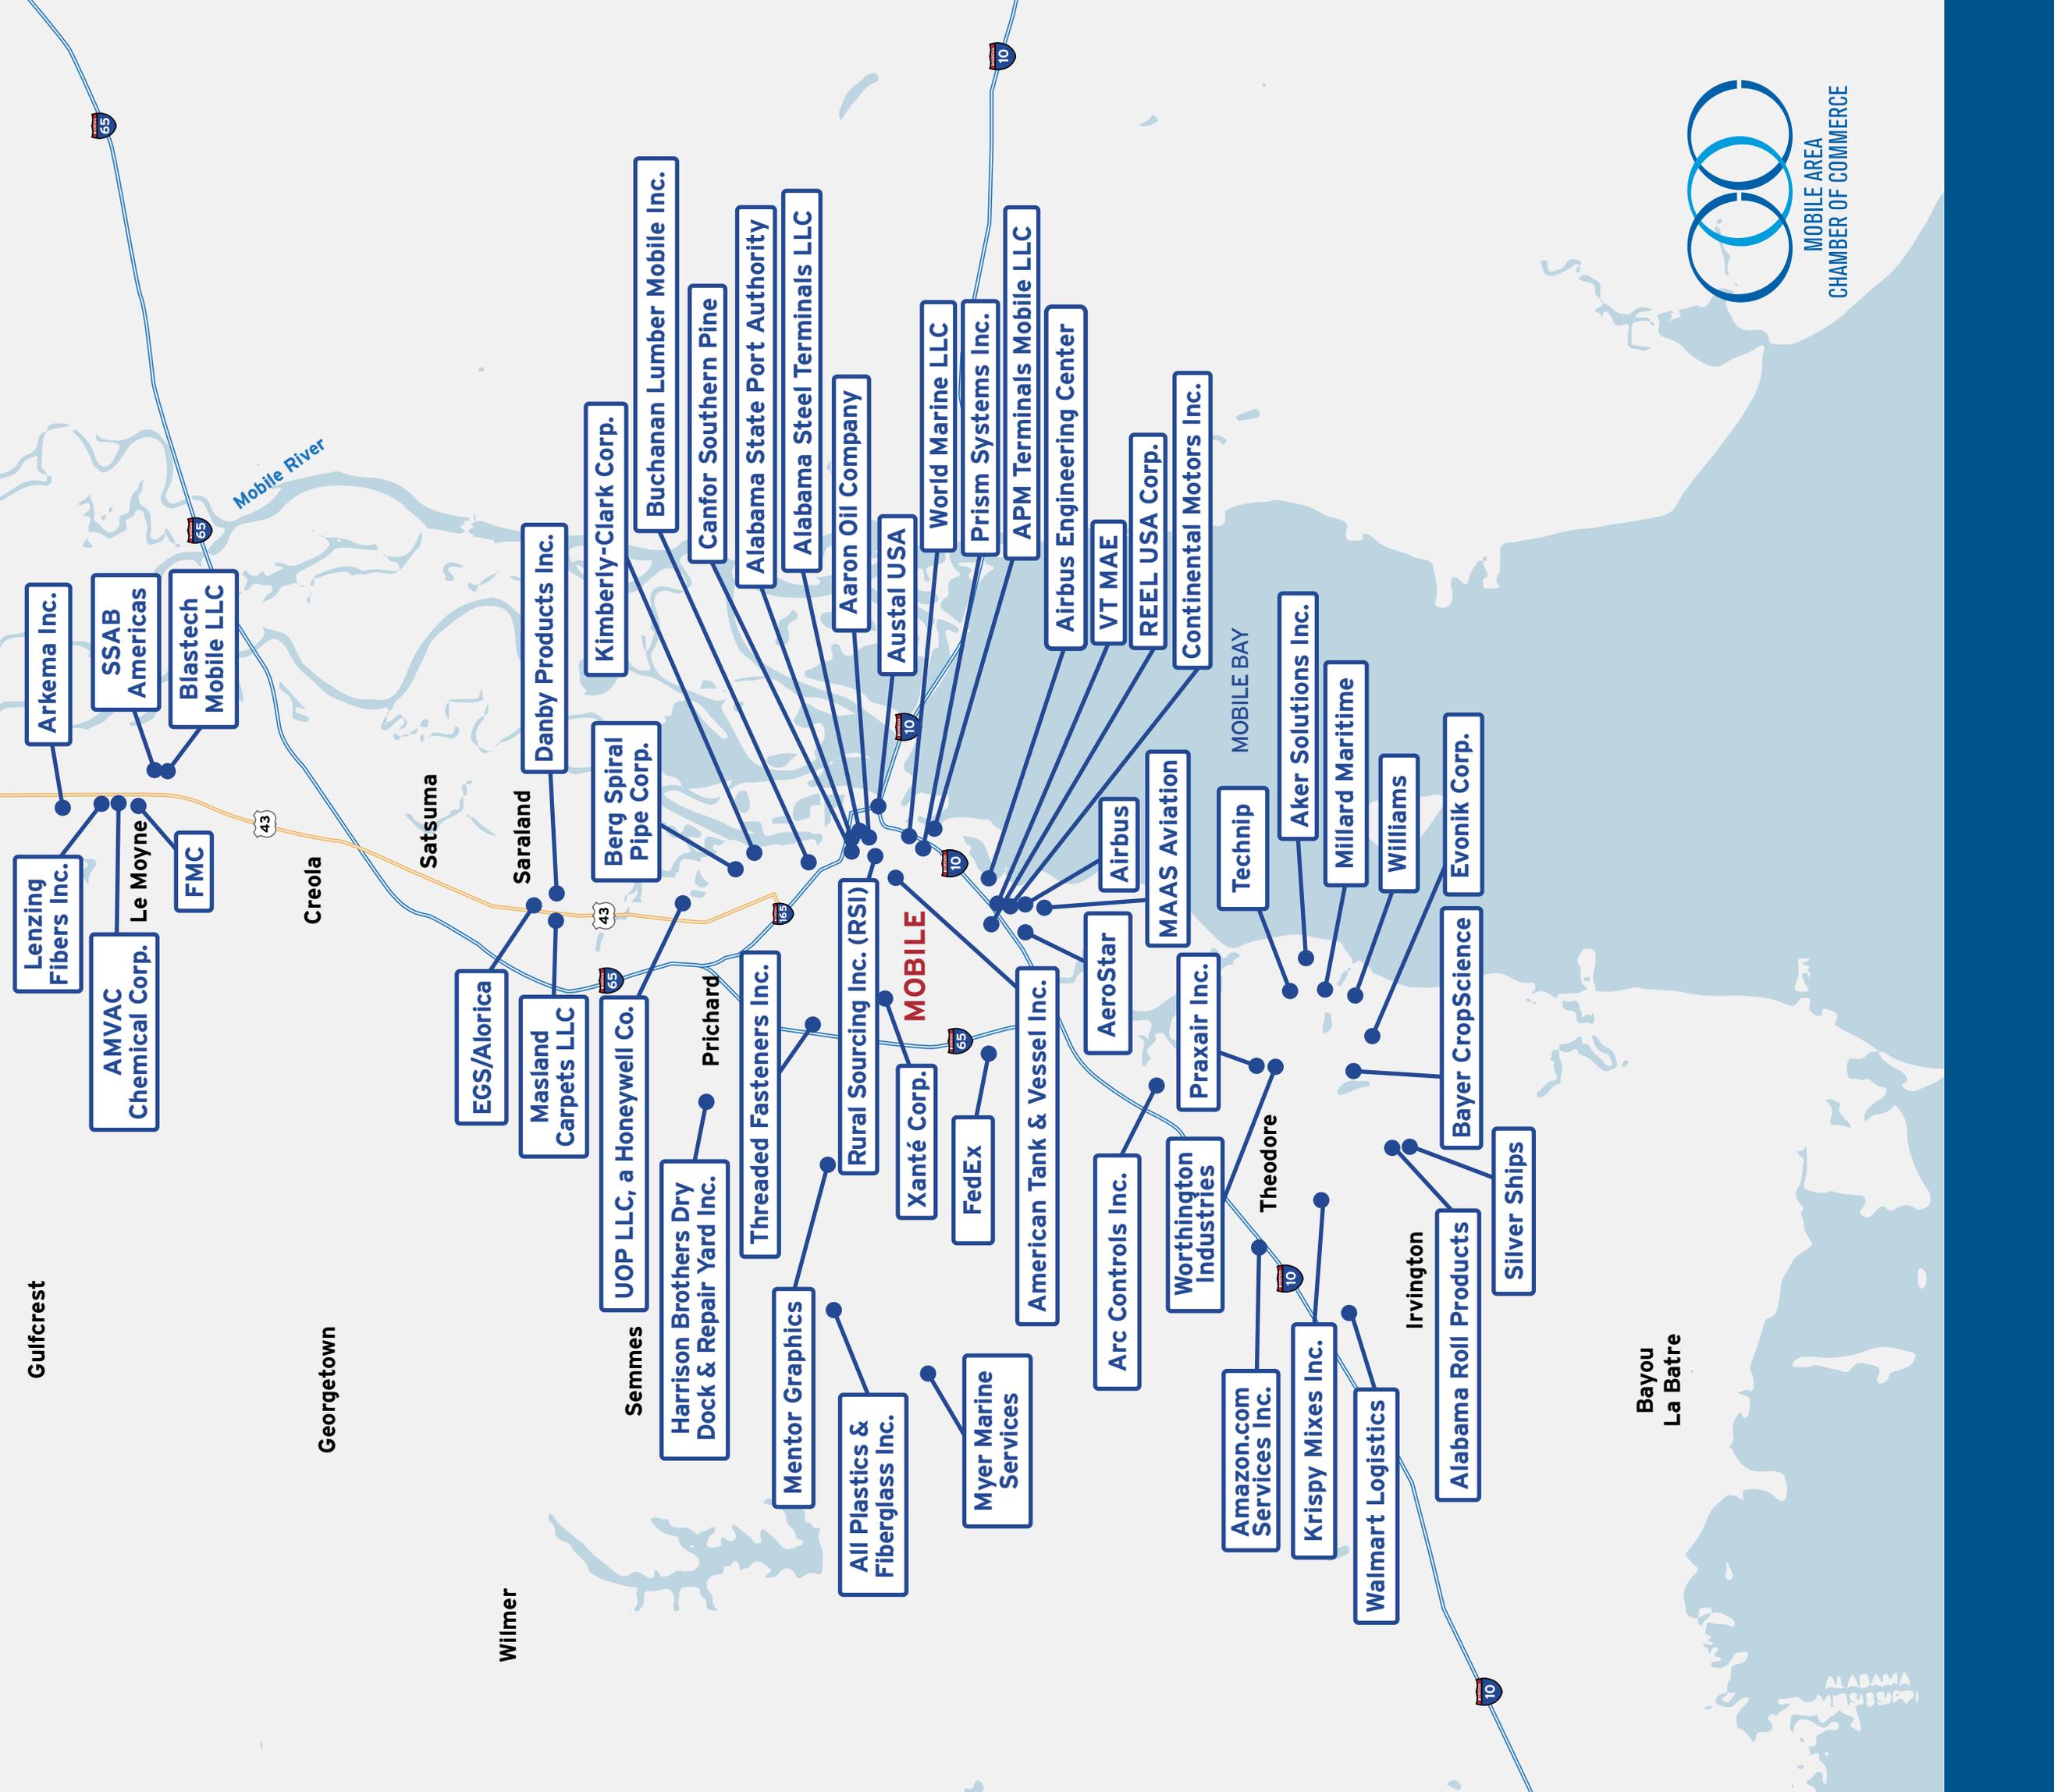

And in the middle of a hard-fought battle to win a U.S. Air Force Tanker Refueling Aircraft contract, the Airbus Engineering Center was announced in 2010, creating 200 engineering jobs. As many remember, Mobile and Airbus eventually lost the project and got what some say was the "better end of the deal" when Airbus opened its Final Assembly Line for commercial aircraft. The company's footprint and number of employees are expected to double with the recent acquisition of a majority stake in Bombardier's C Series aircraft.

What was surprising was the number of companies that made multiple announcements – including undersea umbilical manufacturer Aker Solutions and Evonik's effort creating a park where companies can feed off the byproducts each creates.

Representing manufacturing, steel, chemical, maritime and aerospace industries, Mobile's economy is strongly diversified.

In 2014, the technology industry achieved a major coup when the software development company Rural Sourcing Inc. (RSI) committed to create 100 high-tech jobs in downtown Mobile. The company helped start the development of the "technology corridor" and resides in the renovated Buick building on St. Louis Street.

Following its purchase of Mobile-based Scotch Gulf Lumber, Canadian-based Canfor Southern Pine moved its headquarters to Mobile in 2016, spurring the first of several headquarters announcements such as SSAB's commitment to move its American home office to complement its steel mill in Axis.

Last year, Continental Motors, an aircraft engine company here since the 1960s, recommitted to Mobile as its global headquarters and announced it would build a new facility at Mobile Aeroplex at Brookley. Two days later, Walmart announced it would build direct import distribution center to serve its other distribution centers along the central Gulf Coast – only five others existed previously. In early summer, Amazon's sortation center announcement upped our "coolness" factor among younger generations who grew up with the online retailer.

Also on the list are Mobile-based companies like AeroStar, Myer Marine and Prism Systems that could operate almost anywhere but choose Mobile as home.

As you look at the map on the foldout and the list of new and expanding projects, the variety and scope help diversify the local economy, which equals strength for the long haul.

As Bill Sisson, the Mobile Area Chamber's president & CEO, said in a 2018 video, "We can't wait to show you what's next."

The Mobile Area Chamber of Commerce is the lead economic developer for the City of Mobile and Mobile County. Much of our economic success is attributed to the collaborative efforts of Team Mobile – a group of city and county officials, Alabama State Port Authority, Mobile Airport Authority, local utility and educational entities, and the Chamber.

According to an economic impact study by Auburn University at Montgomery, Mobile has the most diverse economy in Alabama. Our current industry clusters include aviation/aerospace, chemical, healthcare, information technology, maritime, logistics/distribution, oil and gas, and steel.

The following companies are among the most recent to announce new or additional investment, and statistics measure results from 2007 to 2018.

Editor's Note: This is an annual publication updated by the Mobile Area Chamber and shared with prospective economic development clients and regional, national and international media.

AeroStar

Aviation Technology

www.aerostar.aero

The Mobile-based aircraft maintenance repair company is more than doubling its footprint and employees to accommodate its growing workload. AeroStar performs maintenance on Airbus, Boeing and Bombardier platforms.

Airbus

Aircraft Manufacturing

www.airbus.com

Following the acquisition of a majority stake in the Bombardier C Series aircraft, Airbus will create a second final assembly line in Mobile. The company also delivered its first U.S.-built aircraft with the new engine option (NEO), offering customers a quieter and more fuel-efficient plane. Mobile is the fourth city in the world and the only city in the U.S. to assemble the A320 aircraft family.

Aker

Oilfield Services

www.akersolutions.com

The company is relocating engineering, human resources and accounting positions to Mobile. In addition, Aker is making a capital investment in its umbilicals manufacturing operations to meet the demands of its global customer base.

Amazon

Warehousing

www.amazon.com

Amazon's first investment in Alabama was a sortation center in Mobile. More than a million packages a month have the Mob5 label, indicating they came through Mobile.

AM/NS Calvert

Steel Manufacturing

www.usa.arcelormittal.com

The joint venture of ArcelorMittal and Nippon Steel and Sumitomo Metal Corp. increased its slab yard storage area and invested in technologies for high-strength steel. The company produces 5.3 million tons of flat rolled carbon steel products annually for the automotive, construction and other industries.

APM Terminals

www.apmterminals.com

Phase three of five planned expansions is underway, including the addition of two super-Post Panamax and two Post-Panamax ship-to-shore cranes. When completed, the container port will accommodate 650,000 TEUs annually.

Austal USA

Shipbuilding

www.austal.com

Austal has delivered nine Littoral Combat Ships (LCS) and nine Expeditionary Fast Transport vessels (EPF) to the U.S. Navy from its shipyard at the Port of Mobile. Currently, there are seven LCS and three EPF ships in various phases of construction, enough to guarantee the current workforce through 2022.

BASF (formerly Bayer Crop Science)

Chemicals

www.cropscience.bayer.com

The company moved into the Mobile market, co-locating at Evonik's Mobile facility to use an Evonik chemical to produce BASF's agricultural herbicide.

Canfor Southern Pine

Lumber

www.canfor.com

Canfor recently located its U.S. headquarters to Mobile. The lumber company also has a sawmill located in Mobile.

Continental Motors Group

Aircraft Engines

www.continentalmotors.aero

The company announced plans to build a 260,000-square-foot state-of-the-art manufacturing facility and corporate office. The news was part of Continental's re-commitment to Mobile as its corporate global headquarters.

Evonik Corp.

www.evonik.com

The company recently expanded its production and established a chemical park where companies can benefit from the by-products of Evonik. Recently, the park drew a new product line operation with BASF.

Hutchinson

With an initial facility estimated between 21,000 and 35,000 square feet, Hutchinson's plans for an Aerospace Manufacturing Center of Excellence in Mobile could expand up to 65,000 square feet.

Kimberly-Clark

Paper Products

www.kimberly-clark.com

In a year's time, the company announced two significant investments: The first for an on-site heat and power plant, and the second to replace a tissue machine, add a converting line and expand its recycled fiber facility.

Lenzing Fibers

Woven Textiles

www.lenzing.com

Once the company finalizes building a new facility on site, it will be the largest production site of TENCEL® in the world with anticipated production of 90,000 tons per year of the woven fiber used in clothing, sheets, baby wipes and other personal and industrial applications.

MAAS Aviation

www.maasaviation.com

The company completed a twin-bay paint shop facility dedicated to maintenance, repair and overhaul (MRO). The facility is an addition to the hangar MAAS set up initially at the Airbus Final Assembly Line.

Millard Maritime

Maritime Terminals

www.millardmaritime.com

The port facility located in south Mobile County is expanding its conveyance system for salt used to de-ice roads and parking lots. Millard's services include container stripping and loading, in-house stevedoring and export/import capabilities.

Prism Systems

Software Development

www.prismsystems.com

Driving this Mobile-based company's expansion is a new research and development lab. Prism creates the systems control software for Fortune 500 companies and other customers in energy, food and beverage, entertainment, government, oil and gas, pulp and paper, education and more.

Safran USA

Aviation Nacelles

www.safran-usa.com

The manufacturing operation will produce and install aircraft engine nacelles, the housing for an aircraft engine and its related components. The company built out a 24,500-square-foot bay at Mobile Aeroplex at Brookley.

Steel Manufacturing

www.ssab.us

The company is moving its U.S. division's head office to Mobile. SSAB's manufacturing facility in Axis produces quenched and tempered steel plate used in automobiles, elevator buckets and other manufacturing and construction sectors.

Threaded Fasteners

Industrial Components

The company is building a galvanizing facility, and recently expanded its Mobile operations. Threaded Fasteners manufactures bolts and specialty headed products for maritime, industrial/chemical, transportation, construction, utility and original equipment manufacturer customers.

Walmart

www.walmart.com

The company opened its newest direct import distribution center in Mobile in August 2018. The 2.5 million-square-foot facility will stock Walmart's other distribution centers along the central Gulf Coast.

Worthington Industries

Cryogenic Technology

Following the company's purchase of Taylor Wharton's cryoscience business, Worthington announced plans to move its manufacturing of transport trailer production to Mobile.

* Mobile has long been recognized for its foreign direct investment. The asterisk by 10 of the 50 major employers represents those based outside the U.S.

MOBILE'S WORKFORCE TALENT POOL

Mobile's growing business community counts on a strong, talented and dedicated workforce. There are a number of resources and programs to ensure local residents have the skills area employers need.

Among the most recognized state-led training programs in the country, AIDT offers comprehensive pre-employment selection and on-the-job-training, specific to a qualifying company's needs. In Mobile, AIDT operates the Alabama Aviation Training Center, AIDT Maritime Training Center and the Erich Heine Learning Center (focused on steel manufacturing).

There are also numerous community colleges, training centers and apprenticeship programs. Twelve signature academies with career-oriented curricula based on current and projected job openings operate at Mobile County public high schools.

EASY ACCESS TO NORTH AMERICA AND WORLD MARKETS

By land, by air or by sea – you can get here from anywhere.

Mobile is the largest Gulf Coast city between New Orleans and Tampa. A few interesting notes about our water economy: the Mobile-Tensaw River Delta is the second largest delta in the U.S., Mobile Bay is the fourth largest estuary in the nation and Mobile Bay holds the second largest natural gas reserve in the world.

(a little something extra)

A growing business community with a skilled workforce and unmatched infrastructure and logistics make Mobile an undeniable choice for your company's new location or expansion.

Our friendliness, historic character, abundance of cultural and recreational activities, and low cost of living make Mobile a place anyone would want to call home.

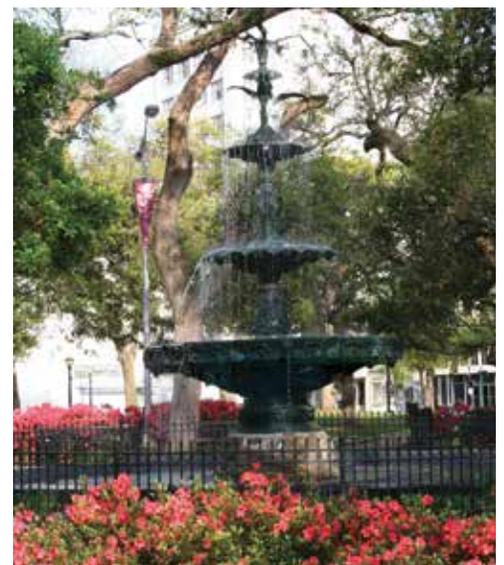

Here are a few things that make us unique:

Mobile is the birthplace of modern-day Mardi Gras celebrations in the U.S.

The Duffee Oak is a 300-plus-year-old tree, and one of 3,000 live oaks more than 100 years old in the city.

The University of South Alabama has the only Level 1 Trauma Center in the region and its Mitchell Cancer Institute is the only academic cancer research center in the upper Gulf Coast region.

Mobile was founded by the French in 1702. The city has also flown under the flags of Spain and Britain, in addition to the United States.

The Dollar General Bowl, Reese's Senior Bowl, Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo, Dauphin Island Regatta, Azalea Trail Run and the Distinguished Young Women scholarship program all call Mobile home. In addition, regional golf is among the nation's finest with more than 25 courses.

Mobile is known as the Azalea City thanks to Frise Langlois, who first brought the bright pink blossoms here from his father's garden in Toulouse, France, in 1754.

Cureton and Morgan Join Chamber Economic Development Team

Colton Cureton is the new project manager of the business development division of the Mobile Area Chamber's economic development department. He will support the division's activities, including staffing various committees, representing projects to the City of Mobile Industrial Development Board and the Mobile County Industrial Development Authority, and actively working business and industrial projects.

degree in public administration, he worked as a graduate assistant for Troy University Online, a personnel analyst intern for the city-county of Montgomery and an internal analyst intern for the City of Dothan.

Most recently, he was project manager for Southwest Alabama Workforce Development Council (SAWDC) Alabama Works in Mobile.

"Colton's analytic work and experience with SAWDC has prepared him well to continue the economic development work here at the Chamber, and we are very fortunate to have him," said David Rodgers, the Chamber's vice president of economic development.

Cureton can be reached at 251-431-8650 or ccureton@mobilechamber.com.

"Mobile is a prosperous city that has so much to offer citizens," Cureton said. "Its diverse interstate, rail, airport and port system make Mobile an ideal location for a company representing any industry."

At Troy University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in human services and a master's

The Mobile Area Chamber named Kayla Morgan marketing and research manager in the Chamber's economic development department. She is responsible for collecting and analyzing data, developing and publishing a wide array of community and state research documents, updating marketing materials and responding to information requests.

Morgan

a concentration in marketing management while working as a marketing intern for USA Office of Marketing and Communications.

Before that, she was a store manager for Marble Slab Creamery & Great American Cookie, head coach for Mobile Storm Volleyball Club and later Southbound orientation leader and student assistant at USA's Mitchell College of Business.

"I think it's incredible to have such a strong resource here in Mobile that is so dedicated to helping the businesses in our community," Morgan said. "Mobile is growing, and the Chamber plays a huge part in making that happen."

She recently graduated from the University of South Alabama (USA) with a degree in business administration with

"Kayla hit the ground running when she got to the Chamber, ready and focused," said David Rodgers, the Chamber's vice president of economic development. "We welcome her energy as well as her skills."

Talking Tariffs with Members

Kellie Hope, the Chamber's vice president for community and governmental affairs, has been listening to members with concerns about the steel and aluminum tariffs announced against Canada, Mexico and the European Union, and then communicating those concerns with the offices of Rep. Bradley Byrne, Sen. Richard Shelby and Sen. Doug Jones. There are significant concerns over a possible trade war, which will have negative implications on our Port City.

Member Ribbon Cuttings and Grand Openings

Chamber staff and ambassadors helped cut ribbons and celebrate grand openings at Murphy USA, Airport 1 Self Storage, Raceway, Humana and The Ruby Slipper Café. For more information on having the Chamber help with your upcoming event, contact Dawn Rencher at 251-431-8649.

Economic Development Team Hits Trade Shows

This summer, Shelby Glover, senior project manager, and Christina Stimpson, director of international trade in the Chamber's economic development department, attended the Select USA Investment Summit to promote international investment. The Chamber partnered with the Alabama State Port Authority and Baldwin County Economic Development Alliance to host a booth at the conference.

New Board of Advisors Named

The Chamber has announced several new Board of Advisors members, bringing the number to 253. They are Flexible Benefits, Rayford & Associates and Stewart & Whatley Builders. To learn more about this group of influential members, contact Carolyn Golson at 251-431-8622 or cgolson@mobilechamber.com.

Chamber Hosts Listening Session for Small Business Owners

In the first stop on a statewide listening tour, Bruce LeVell (center of the photo below) of the U.S. Small Business Administration's Office of Advocacy led a roundtable discussion addressing the challenges facing small businesses today.

Attendees were given an opportunity to provide feedback to help LeVell's office voice small business concerns from the region to the White House, federal agencies and Congress. More than 50 small business owners and advocates attended.

Make-A-Wish Alabama

Make-A-Wish Alabama is one of 62 federated chapters of Make-A-Wish America created with a vision to grant the wish of every child diagnosed with a critical illness. Since its inception in September 2012 to better serve the children and families of Alabama, the organization has granted more than 600 wishes alone in Alabama. It is believed a wish experience can be a game-changer.

AMBASSADOR of the month

As assistant community director for Stone Ridge by Somerby Apartment Homes, Jordan Henderson is responsible for accounts payable and receivable for the property.

She became a Chamber ambassador in December of 2017, and is the Chamber's Ambassador of the Month.

"Taking on the ambassador role allows me to spotlight Mobile in a positive way and create that 'Would you look at that?' moment for anyone interested in Mobile," Henderson says.

Ambassadors are volunteers who support the Mobile Area Chamber by visiting members and assisting with events and ribbon-cuttings. To learn more, contact Dawn Rencher at 251-431-8649 or drencher@mobilechamber.com.

The Mobile Area Chamber was awarded a five-star rating by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the highest designation given. Of the 6,936 chambers in the U.S., only 203 are accredited, and of those only 103 have achieved five-star distinction. The Mobile Area Chamber has been accredited by the U.S. Chamber since the designation's inception more than 60 years ago.
