Experience It! Glacier Bay National Park

Glacier Bay National Park and Preserve is an American national park located in Southeast Alaska, west of Juneau. In 1980, it became part of a binational UNESCO World Heritage Site covering 3.3 million acres of wild coastlines, fjords, mountains, and glaciers. Glacier Bay is a spiritual homeland to the Huna Tlingit people, who inhabited it long before the Europeans reached the Glacier Bay shores. An Alaskan cruise to take in the amazing wilderness and scenery of Glacier Bay is a true bucket-list experience. Cruising through this breathtaking biosphere, you may hear the creaks and groans of "living" ice or the splash of a breaching humpback whale.
